Gendered Fields Women And Ethnography

This is likewise one of the factors obtaining this book gendered fields women men and ethnography online. You might not require more epoch to spend to go to the books instigation as skillfully as search for them. In some cases, you likewise complete not discover the revelation gendered fields women men and ethnography that you are looking for. It will categorically squander the time.

However below, later you visit this web page, it will be correspondingly entirely simple to acquire as competently as download lead gendered fields women men and ethnography it will categorically squander the time.

Fieldwork and Fieldworkers - Anthropology in Oceania. Meeting - 1998-01-01

Ethnographic fieldwork is prolonged, intensive, participatory and of necessity highly personal. Its organization and execution are influenced by the researcher's gender, age, ethnicity, personality and other individual factors. In this text, a group of experienced authors examine the interplay between their family situation and their fieldwork.

Fieldwork and the Live in the Indian Ocean - Erin E. Sachs - 2015-10-21

Muslim communities throughout the Indian Ocean have long questioned what it means to be a “good Muslim.” Much recent scholarship on Islam in the Indian Ocean concerns debates over the legitimacy of non-Muslim women and men. Despite their increasing participation in the region’s marine systems, non-Muslim women and men are often regarded as “outsiders” or “impure” by local Muslims and by their own contemporaries. This book explores the musings of Muslim fieldworkers on the social, political, and religious implications of their work for local Muslims and for the modern Indian Ocean region. By working as fieldworkers, Muslim anthropologists not only counter the misperceptions of Islam and the meaningfulness of gender and authority currently constructing the region. This book provides an invaluable resource for Muslim fieldworkers and research students, and for anyone interested in the region.

Fieldwork and the Live in the Indian Ocean - Erin E. Sachs - 2015-10-21

Muslim communities throughout the Indian Ocean have long questioned what it means to be a “good Muslim.” Much recent scholarship on Islam in the Indian Ocean concerns debates over the legitimacy of non-Muslim women and men. Despite their increasing participation in the region’s marine systems, non-Muslim women and men are often regarded as “outsiders” or “impure” by local Muslims and by their own contemporaries. This book explores the musings of Muslim fieldworkers on the social, political, and religious implications of their work for local Muslims and for the modern Indian Ocean region. By working as fieldworkers, Muslim anthropologists not only counter the misperceptions of Islam and the meaningfulness of gender and authority currently constructing the region. This book provides an invaluable resource for Muslim fieldworkers and research students, and for anyone interested in the region.
Sex, Sexuality, and the Anthropologist - Franziska Pfeiffer - 1999

Sex in the field—the dilemma of whether to cover up or display sexual identities and desires during the course of anthropological fieldwork—is one of the best-kept secrets in the discipline. This book provides a candid account of what it is like doing research in the field from a sexual perspective, and it challenges the balance of a holistic approach to the anthropological enterprise.

Sex, Sexuality, and the Anthropologist - Franziska Pfeiffer - 1999

Sex in the field—the dilemma of whether to cover up or display sexual identities and desires during the course of anthropological fieldwork—is one of the best-kept secrets in the discipline. This book provides a candid account of what it is like doing research in the field from a sexual perspective, and it challenges the balance of a holistic approach to the anthropological enterprise.

Transdisciplinary Ethnography in India - Rosa Maria Perez - 2018-08-19

This book familiarizes readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and in turn, how their experiences shape the knowledge they produce. By challenging these assumptions, the authors offer an opportunity for researchers, advisors, and educators to consider the ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to women to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Gender and Genre in Ethnographic Writing - Elisabeth Tauer - 2021

This book familiarizes readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and in turn, how their experiences shape the knowledge they produce. By challenging these assumptions, the authors offer an opportunity for researchers, advisors, and educators to consider the ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to women to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Doing Gender Diversity - Rebecca F. Plants-Li Mau - 2018-04-17

This cutting-edge reader demonstrates the multiple ways in which the universe of gender is socially, culturally, and historically constructed. The selections focus on gender itself—how gender operates socioculturally, exists, functions, and is presented in micro and macro interactions. In order to avoid essentialization, the editors examine the various ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Women's Rituals and Ceremonies in Shia Iran and Muslim Communities - Pekhmanesh - 2015

This book familiarizes readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and in turn, how their experiences shape the knowledge they produce. By challenging these assumptions, the authors offer an opportunity for researchers, advisors, and educators to consider the ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

This book familiarizes readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and in turn, how their experiences shape the knowledge they produce. By challenging these assumptions, the authors offer an opportunity for researchers, advisors, and educators to consider the ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Doing Gender Diversity - Rebecca F. Plants-Li Mau - 2018-04-17

This cutting-edge reader demonstrates the multiple ways in which the universe of gender is socially, culturally, and historically constructed. The selections focus on gender itself—how gender operates socioculturally, exists, functions, and is presented in micro and macro interactions. In order to avoid essentialization, the editors examine the various ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Doing Gender Diversity - Rebecca F. Plants-Li Mau - 2018-04-17

This cutting-edge reader demonstrates the multiple ways in which the universe of gender is socially, culturally, and historically constructed. The selections focus on gender itself—how gender operates socioculturally, exists, functions, and is presented in micro and macro interactions. In order to avoid essentialization, the editors examine the various ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Women’s Rituals and Ceremonies in Shia Iran and Muslim Communities - Pekhmanesh - 2015

This book familiarizes readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and in turn, how their experiences shape the knowledge they produce. By challenging these assumptions, the authors offer an opportunity for researchers, advisors, and educators to consider the ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Women’s Rituals and Ceremonies in Shia Iran and Muslim Communities - Pekhmanesh - 2015

This book familiarizes readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and in turn, how their experiences shape the knowledge they produce. By challenging these assumptions, the authors offer an opportunity for researchers, advisors, and educators to consider the ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

This book familiarizes readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and in turn, how their experiences shape the knowledge they produce. By challenging these assumptions, the authors offer an opportunity for researchers, advisors, and educators to consider the ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Gender and Genre in Ethnographic Writing - Elisabeth Tauer - 2021

This book familiarizes readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and in turn, how their experiences shape the knowledge they produce. By challenging these assumptions, the authors offer an opportunity for researchers, advisors, and educators to consider the ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Doing Gender Diversity - Rebecca F. Plants-Li Mau - 2018-04-17

This cutting-edge reader demonstrates the multiple ways in which the universe of gender is socially, culturally, and historically constructed. The selections focus on gender itself—how gender operates socioculturally, exists, functions, and is presented in micro and macro interactions. In order to avoid essentialization, the editors examine the various ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Women’s Rituals and Ceremonies in Shia Iran and Muslim Communities - Pekhmanesh - 2015

This book familiarizes readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and in turn, how their experiences shape the knowledge they produce. By challenging these assumptions, the authors offer an opportunity for researchers, advisors, and educators to consider the ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Gender and Genre in Ethnographic Writing - Elisabeth Tauer - 2021

This book familiarizes readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and in turn, how their experiences shape the knowledge they produce. By challenging these assumptions, the authors offer an opportunity for researchers, advisors, and educators to consider the ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.

Doing Gender Diversity - Rebecca F. Plants-Li Mau - 2018-04-17

This cutting-edge reader demonstrates the multiple ways in which the universe of gender is socially, culturally, and historically constructed. The selections focus on gender itself—how gender operates socioculturally, exists, functions, and is presented in micro and macro interactions. In order to avoid essentialization, the editors examine the various ways in which culture interacts with individuals to produce the range of presentations of self that we call ‘gender,’ from people born male who become adult men to lesions to transwomen, and everyone else on the diverse gender spectrum.
Gender Issues in Ethnography - Carol A. B. Warren - 2000-03-24

This rewritten and updated edition of "Gender Issues in Field Research" discusses the state of the art of gender differences that affect researchers in social sciences. Ethnography and Anthropology (MFEA).

Gender Issues in Ethnography - Carol A. B. Warren

This rewritten and updated edition of "Gender Issues in Field Research" discusses the state of the art of gender differences that affect researchers in social sciences. Ethnography and Anthropology (MFEA).

Female and Male Fieldwork in Southeast Asia - Karin Wairi Wairi - 2021-10-03

This provocative book seeks to redescribe inferences in Western perceptions of gender relations in Southeast Asia by bringing to the fore the area's ethnic and cultural variance and showing how women and men explain the informal and psychological dimensions of relationships as vital in holding family, neighborhood and kinship ties together. The book documents the ways in which men and women perceive and talk about their personal and material situations, and shows that both male and female perceptions are culturally significant. Male-female interpretations of power and status tend to diverge usually towards the understanding that the contributions of men and women are equally important. The book is based on extensive research, and is an indispensable guide for researchers and policymakers working in Southeast Asia.

Female and Male Fieldwork in Southeast Asia

This provocative book seeks to redescribe inferences in Western perceptions of gender relations in Southeast Asia by bringing to the fore the area's ethnic and cultural variance and showing how women and men explain the informal and psychological dimensions of relationships as vital in holding family, neighborhood and kinship ties together. The book documents the ways in which men and women perceive and talk about their personal and material situations, and shows that both male and female perceptions are culturally significant. Male-female interpretations of power and status tend to diverge usually towards the understanding that the contributions of men and women are equally important. The book is based on extensive research, and is an indispensable guide for researchers and policymakers working in Southeast Asia.

Shadows in the Field: New Perspectives for Fieldwork in Ethnomusicology - Gregory F. Barz - 1996-11-21

What are the new directions in ethnomusicological fieldwork? What do we see when we acknowledge the shadows we cast in the field? Will fieldwork continue as an inclusive and reflexive process where the researchers themselves are foregrounded and the research undertaken as a reflexive endeavor? This book will be of particular value to those wishing to understand and review the importance of gender within their research studies. It provides a clear and critical view of some of the social theories concerning gender, society and experience. The book will also provide a timely reminder for more experienced researchers that the fieldwork process is integrally connected with the social and political relations of the cultures studied.

Gender Issues in Ethnography - Carol A. B. Warren

This rewritten and updated edition of "Gender Issues in Field Research" discusses the state of the art of gender differences that affect researchers in social sciences. Ethnography and Anthropology (MFEA).

Gender Issues in Ethnography - Carol A. B. Warren - 2000-03-24

This rewritten and updated edition of "Gender Issues in Field Research" discusses the state of the art of gender differences that affect researchers in social sciences. Ethnography and Anthropology (MFEA).

Female and Male Fieldwork in Southeast Asia - Karin Wairi Wairi - 2021-10-03

This provocative book seeks to redescribe inferences in Western perceptions of gender relations in Southeast Asia by bringing to the fore the area's ethnic and cultural variance and showing how women and men explain the informal and psychological dimensions of relationships as vital in holding family, neighborhood and kinship ties together. The book documents the ways in which men and women perceive and talk about their personal and material situations, and shows that both male and female perceptions are culturally significant. Male-female interpretations of power and status tend to diverge usually towards the understanding that the contributions of men and women are equally important. The book is based on extensive research, and is an indispensable guide for researchers and policymakers working in Southeast Asia.

Female and Male Fieldwork in Southeast Asia - Karin Wairi Wairi - 2021-10-03

This provocative book seeks to redescribe inferences in Western perceptions of gender relations in Southeast Asia by bringing to the fore the area's ethnic and cultural variance and showing how women and men explain the informal and psychological dimensions of relationships as vital in holding family, neighborhood and kinship ties together. The book documents the ways in which men and women perceive and talk about their personal and material situations, and shows that both male and female perceptions are culturally significant. Male-female interpretations of power and status tend to diverge usually towards the understanding that the contributions of men and women are equally important. The book is based on extensive research, and is an indispensable guide for researchers and policymakers working in Southeast Asia.

Shadows in the Field: New Perspectives for Fieldwork in Ethnomusicology - Gregory F. Barz - 1996-11-21

What are the new directions in ethnomusicological fieldwork? What do we see when we acknowledge the shadows we cast in the field? Will fieldwork continue as an inclusive and reflexive process where the researchers themselves are foregrounded and the research undertaken as a reflexive endeavor? This book will be of particular value to those wishing to understand and review the importance of gender within their research studies. It provides a clear and critical view of some of the social theories concerning gender, society and experience. The book will also provide a timely reminder for more experienced researchers that the fieldwork process is integrally connected with the social and political relations of the cultures studied.

Gender Issues in Ethnography - Carol A. B. Warren

This rewritten and updated edition of "Gender Issues in Field Research" discusses the state of the art of gender differences that affect researchers in social sciences. Ethnography and Anthropology (MFEA).

Female and Male Fieldwork in Southeast Asia - Karin Wairi Wairi - 2021-10-03

This provocative book seeks to redescribe inferences in Western perceptions of gender relations in Southeast Asia by bringing to the fore the area's ethnic and cultural variance and showing how women and men explain the informal and psychological dimensions of relationships as vital in holding family, neighborhood and kinship ties together. The book documents the ways in which men and women perceive and talk about their personal and material situations, and shows that both male and female perceptions are culturally significant. Male-female interpretations of power and status tend to diverge usually towards the understanding that the contributions of men and women are equally important. The book is based on extensive research, and is an indispensable guide for researchers and policymakers working in Southeast Asia.

Female and Male Fieldwork in Southeast Asia - Karin Wairi Wairi - 2021-10-03

This provocative book seeks to redescribe inferences in Western perceptions of gender relations in Southeast Asia by bringing to the fore the area's ethnic and cultural variance and showing how women and men explain the informal and psychological dimensions of relationships as vital in holding family, neighborhood and kinship ties together. The book documents the ways in which men and women perceive and talk about their personal and material situations, and shows that both male and female perceptions are culturally significant. Male-female interpretations of power and status tend to diverge usually towards the understanding that the contributions of men and women are equally important. The book is based on extensive research, and is an indispensable guide for researchers and policymakers working in Southeast Asia.
Men At Play - Michael A. Robloux - 2001

After a year spent documenting the life and daily routines of players for an American Hockey League team, Michael Robloux found that most people's perceptions of hockey players' lives as romantic and glamorous are unrealistic. The majority of professional hockey players work in a closed and compartmentalized environment in the lower tiers of hockey on semi-professional teams.

Men At Play - Michael A. Robloux - 2003

After a year spent documenting the life and daily routines of players for an American Hockey League team, Michael Robloux found that most people's perceptions of hockey players' lives as romantic and glamorous are unrealistic. The majority of professional hockey players work in a closed and compartmentalized environment in the lower tiers of hockey on semi-professional teams.

Anthropologica - 1999

Men and Masculinities

This handbook provides an up-to-date guide to the field of men and masculinities, and provides both novice and experienced scholars with valuable insights into a select list of critical texts pertaining to a wide array of social science methods useful when doing fieldwork. Through essays on ethnography to case study, architectural research, oral history, surveys, secondary data analysis, and ethics, this refreshing new collection offers "tales from the field" by renowned scholars across various disciplines.

A Handbook for Social Science Field Research - Eleanor Perrenau - 2006-01-24

This handbook provides a comprehensive overview of the field of social science field research, covering thousands of titles and Web sites in 19 subject areas published in the last two decades of the 20th century. It combines the traditional sociological enquiry into the family, work and education with contemporary concerns about multiple masculinities, globalization and late modernity.

A Handbook for Social Science Field Research: Essays & Bibliographic Sources on Research Design and Methods provides both novice and experienced scholars with valuable insights into a select list of critical texts pertaining to a wide array of social science methods useful when doing fieldwork. Through essays on ethnography to case study, architectural research, oral history, surveys, secondary data analysis, and ethics, this refreshing new collection offers "tales from the field" by renowned scholars across various disciplines.

Community Activism and Feminist Politics - Nancy Naples - 2012-11-12

This collection demonstrates the diversity of women's struggles against problems such as racism, violence, homophobia, focusing on the complex ways that gender, culture, race-ethnicity and class shape women's political consciousness in the US.

Community Activism and Feminist Politics - Nancy Naples - 2011-12-07

This collection demonstrates the diversity of women's struggles against problems such as racism, violence, homophobia, focusing on the complex ways that gender, culture, race-ethnicity and class shape women's political consciousness in the US.

AIDS - Lesley Doyal - 1994

The authors identify the implications of the HIV/AIDS epidemic for women in Britain and present an overview of the important issues raised for feminist theory and practice.

AIDS - Lesley Doyal - 1994

The authors identify the implications of the HIV/AIDS epidemic for women in Britain and present an overview of the important issues raised for feminist theory and practice.

Dreaming of Change - Julia Drucker - 2005

Julia Drucker focuses on the everyday experiences of young, highly educated women in contemporary Jordan. She analyses their contributions to social change as well as the strategies they employ in dealing with the problems they face.

Dreaming of Change - Julia Drucker - 2005

Julia Drucker focuses on the everyday experiences of young, highly educated women in contemporary Jordan. She analyses their contributions to social change as well as the strategies they employ in dealing with the problems they face.

Sisters and Lovers - Megan Jemenary - 2011-11-9

This rich ethnography in a rural village in North Bali illuminates the construction of desire by exploring cultural practices regarding courtship and marriage, motherhood, and seasonal fertility. The way these commonplace of daily life are played out in the alternative arenas of tourism and illness highlight pervasive gender inequalities. By allowing key informants to tell their stories in their own voices and by skillfully interweaving fictionalized intertextualised the author gives us not only a rigorously researched ethnography but an intimate and fully realized portrait of Balinese women's innermost secrets.

Sisters and Lovers - Megan Jemenary - 2011-11-9

This rich ethnography in a rural village in North Bali illuminates the construction of desire by exploring cultural practices regarding courtship and marriage, motherhood, and seasonal fertility. The way these commonplace of daily life are played out in the alternative arenas of tourism and illness highlight pervasive gender inequalities. By allowing key informants to tell their stories in their own voices and by skillfully interweaving fictionalized intertextualised the author gives us not only a rigorously researched ethnography but an intimate and fully realized portrait of Balinese women's innermost secrets.

Ethnic Belonging, Gender, and Cultural Practices - Ulrike - 2014-04-15

How are youth cultural identities rooted in gender, ethnicity, and place? What resources do young people from ethnic minorities use in creating their cultural identities? This monograph, based on headlong research, elucidates the case study. The author questions the way young people from minor ethnic minorities respond to the social, political, and cultural transformations of post-Soviet Russia and provides a detailed analysis of how local vs. global relations are experienced outside the West. Relying on extensive ethnographic fieldwork, Ziemer explores the complex processes of identity formation and cultural experiences among young Armenians in a Transcaucasian rural community. The author demonstrates that, for young Armenians and young Adyghs in the Republic of Adygheya, both ethnic groups, Armenians and Adyghs, have a minority status in Russia, yet Adyghs are indigenous to the region while Armenians constitute a diaspora people. This book is the first specific examination of Armenians and Adyghs youth identities in the context of everyday life experiences in post-Soviet Russia.

Ethnic Belonging, Gender, and Cultural Practices - Ulrike - 2014-04-15

How are youth cultural identities rooted in gender, ethnicity, and place? What resources do young people from ethnic minorities use in creating their cultural identities? Drawing upon interdisciplinary research, Ulrike Zimmer's case study demonstrates the different ways in which young people from ethnic minorities respond to the social, political, and cultural transformations of post-Soviet Russia and provides a detailed analysis of how local vs. global relations are experienced outside the West. Relying on extensive ethnographic fieldwork, Ziemer explores the complex processes of identity formation and cultural experiences among young Armenians in a Transcaucasian rural community. The author demonstrates that, for young Armenians and young Adyghs in the Republic of Adygheya, both ethnic groups, Armenians and Adyghs, have a minority status in Russia, yet Adyghs are indigenous to the region while Armenians constitute a diaspora people. This book is the first specific examination of Armenians and Adyghs youth identities in the context of everyday life experiences in post-Soviet Russia.

Men And Masculinities - Raywood, Chris - 2003-01-01

Through a broad critical review of masculinity studies, this book provides an original synthesis of main theories, key concepts and empirical research. Designed to provide an up-to-date guide to the field, it combines the traditional sociological enquiry into the family, work and education with contemporary concerns about multiple identities, globalization and late modernity.

Men And Masculinities - Raywood, Chris - 2003-01-01

Through a broad critical review of masculinity studies, this book provides an original synthesis of main theories, key concepts and empirical research. Designed to provide an up-to-date guide to the field, it combines the traditional sociological enquiry into the family, work and education with contemporary concerns about multiple identities, globalization and late modernity.